FRANKLIN CO. TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION SELECTS A. E. BURKE AS PRES.

The Franklin County Teachers' association held its 44th annual meeting last Friday morning at the Greenfield high school.

The officers elected for 1931 were: Principal Arthur E. Burke, of Turners Falls, president; Principal Anne J. Biddle of Deerfield, first vice-president; Supt. Linville W. Robbins of Northfield, second vice-president; Supt. Frank P. Davidson of Shelburne Falls again as treasurer; Mrs. Dorothy G. Strippe of Whately again as secretary; Principal Dwight S. Davis of Orange, Supt. Frederick W. Porter of Greenfield and Supt. William Lebbard of Charenton, executive committee.

Frank Wright Speaks
Frank Wright, Massachusetts deputy commissioner of education, spoke on the "Second Battle of Lexington", which he termed the three year effort to establish the first normal school in America, which began in 1839. In tracing the history of education in the new world he stated that the Puritans recognized with clear logic five impulses which he believed were inclusive of every urge of civilization. These were to build homes, establish means of livelihood, raise buildings for worship, establish a civil government and to advance learning.

With the basic principles thus laid and a Latin school established in Boston within five miles of its founding, he found it amazing that "we waited 204 years for the germination of the idea of training teachers". From 1775 to 1825 he found no single constructive school law enacted and a growing demand from public platforms and the press for abolition of the public school as unworthy of public respect and support.

Then came Edward Everett as governor, Horace Mann as secretary of the first state board of education, and Cyrus Pierce as principal and entire faculty of the first normal school in the land. "Their's," he said, "was as great a battle for democracy as was the first Battle of Lexington, fought within a stone-throw of each other". As evidence of their victory, Mr. Wright said the budget submitted next month would call for 1,000,000 to maintain the state normal schools for a year while six of the first graduating class at Lexington lived to see state supported normal schools in every state in the union. Now, he said, America has one-fifth of all teachers in the world, yet its population he estimated at one-sixteenth of the world total.

Urges Children to Read
Supt. James N. Muir of Quincy, formerly of Orange, discussed books and reading. "Tools," he declared, "are the fundamental basis of industry and Education. He therefore urged greater attention to reading and for teachers to induce children to read more, and more rapidly."

Principal E. B. Smith of the Greenfield high school reported on both the National Education association convention in Cleveland, which he attended, and the Massachusetts Teachers' federation, the delegate, Miss Mildred M. Hartwell being in Boston at another convention Friday. He told of the growth of both organizations and urged membership in them, saying that teachers were becoming more and more professionally minded as lawyers and physicians have already become.

Rev. Verne L. Smith of the Methodist Episcopal church, Greenfield, offered the opening prayer, following several selections played by the Greenfield high school band under direction of Alfred A. Finch. A vote of thanks to the Greenfield school committee for use of the building was passed and at another point of the proceedings Supt. David J. Malcolm of Hawley remarked that it was costing the county public $1,000 for each of the four hours of the convention.

Section Meetings Held
Miss Katherine Hayden of Greenfield was chairman of the section meeting for the first three grades and among those who spoke on phases of the problems were Miss Helen B. Kitchin, Miss Rebecca S. Eberlein and Alfred Finch, all of Greenfield. Principal Melden Smith of Montague took charge of meeting for grades four to eight. Among those guiding discussions of high schools were Principal H. P. Battey of South Deerfield, Supt. D. J. Malcolm, Miss Agnes E. Knightly of Greenfield, Principal Arthur E. Burke of Turners Falls, Principal H. A. Bryant of Bernardston; Miss Florence I. Emerson of Shelburne Falls; and Miss Annetta Goettner of Turners Falls.

Teachers of one-room schools had Supt. E. K. Currie of Ashfield as chairman while Supt. Linville W. Robbins of Northfield led the meeting for members of school committees, at which R. R. Hatch of Mt. Hermon and Supt. Frank P. Davidson of Shelburne Falls were heard. Supt. Marvin E. James of South Deerfield was chairman of the vocational subjects meeting, with R. A. Lawrence of Greenfield as a speaker.

Exhibitions of drawing and art work done in the county were shown in the library and practical arts were shown in the various class rooms.

The service Sunday morning at the First Congregational Unitarian Church will be fitting as coming after Tuesday's elections and before Armistice Day which is also on Tuesday of next week, and the American Legion and auxiliary will be in attendance.

The railroads are hard hit. In many places only about half as many trains pass through, as in the past, but who should worry, every dog has his day. Nobody worried when the old wagon freighter passed out.

NINETY DISASTERS CALL FOR RED CROSS RELIEF, AT COST OF $1,200,000

Vice Chairman Fieser Cites Readiness to Act of National Society, Which Lessens Loss of Life—3,500 Chapters Aid in Work.

Readiness to act in an emergency, should a disaster strike, has become part of the Red Cross Chapter program in thousands of communities. The need for this training of local committees was revealed last year, when more than ninety communities required disaster relief work by the Red Cross.

As in former years, tornadoes, brought the greatest damage. Twenty-four serious tornadoes occurred. Fire, also took toll of life and property in twenty-four communities. Seven forest fires did great damage; eighteen areas were affected by floods, and nine storms caused heavy losses. Other disasters were cloudbursts, cyclones, epidemics, mine explosions and shipwrecks. In the insular possessions of the United States the Red Cross gave relief in twelve disasters, chiefly from hurricanes. In foreign countries relief was given by the American Red Cross in six instances of earthquakes, floods and to refugees.

The disaster relief work of the Red Cross cost $1,208,161 last year. Statistics showed an approximate death rate of 790 persons in these disasters; buildings destroyed or damaged, 19,578; persons injured, 1,487, and persons assisted by the Red Cross, 96,872.

Through disaster preparedness of Red Cross Chapters, undoubtedly great numbers of lives were saved, and much distress and grief following the calamities was prevented, according to James L. Fieser, vice chairman in charge of domestic operations of the Red Cross.

"This type of work is supported by the memberships of citizens of the United States, their volunteer contributions, and their devoted work," Mr. Fieser said.

"Every man and woman is urged to join as a member of the local Red Cross Chapter, not only to be a partner in supporting the work through his membership, but also to serve should an emergency occur."

Life Savers Numerous

More than a quarter of a million persons are entitled to wear the American Red Cross insignia, denoting they have been taught the expert life saving methods of the organization. The number enrolled to date is 273,202.

THE ANNUAL RED CROSS DRIVE

Once more the opportunity comes to Northfield, as it comes to more than 16,000 American communities, to enroll in the membership of the Red Cross. The canvass, under the leadership of W. W. Coe, will begin on Armistice Day. Be ready for a call from one of the captains. They have been quick to volunteer their services and they will cover their districts well. They are apportioned as follows: South Main street, Mrs. Minnie L. Morgan; North Main street, Mrs. Edward S. Frary; Highland Avenue, Mrs. H. H. Morse; Northfield Seminary, teachers and employees, Miss Gladys Ellithrope; students and the homes on Winchester Road, Miss Helen G. Handy; West Northfield, Miss Evelyn Havercroft and Mrs. C. D. Streeter; The Bookstore building, Miss Sophie Servaes; East and Meadow streets, Miss Hannah Cotter; Maple street, Mrs. George Pefferle; Northfield Hotel, Miss Hess; Birnam Road, Mrs. N. Fay Smith; Hinsdale Road, Mrs. L. R. Alexander; Northfield Farms, Ernest Parker and Mrs. Richard Clough. The support of the Red Cross makes possible:

1. Safety. Red Cross life saving and first aid instruction is successfully meeting the challenge of automobile accidents, asphyxiation, drowning, and other emergencies of modern life.

2. Health. Red Cross nurses and nutritionists are teaching in the school and in the home how to get well and how to keep well.

3. Veterans. For thousands of veterans still suffering from the wounds of the World War, the Red Cross is still the "Greatest Mother in the World."

4. Preparedness. The Red Cross is the country's official agency the relief and rehabilitation of communities stricken by food, earthquake, tornado, fire or other form of disaster.

TWELVE YEARS AGO AND NOW

Pause a moment in your thoughts and think back to that glorious day, when the very air was saturated with the word: Victory! No words can describe our feelings then! The German High Command wanted terms! Our Allied Army and Navy and our own glorious army and navy had been victorious and had won the struggle to keep the world safe for Democracy.

Blood ceased to be shed at the front and in this sudden relaxing of nerves that were tense for the safety of our loved ones, we were wild with joy! They were coming home again, those heroic men, Praised be! But not without the toll of war being paid. For many were not to come home. The graves of France held many of our heroes. They died for us those fearless defenders of righteousness! That we might live and enjoy this wonderful country of ours, they perished! Surely we owe them all our hearts. Their living comrades who are with us today should be the nations' pride. Let us consecrate ourselves to them this Armistice Day to show our appreciation. Attend their exercises. Join their activities and show them our hearts are theirs and our prayers go out for their dead and wounded comrades.

They brought us Victory and Peace! Let us rise as a nation and give thanks and take this opportunity to show the veterans that Armistice Day really MEANS SOMETHING to us.

MRS. PEABODY TO LEAVE MASS. FOR FLORIDA

Mrs. Henry W. Peabody of Beverly, chairman of the National Women's Committee for Law Enforcement, in a statement commenting upon the prohibition issue in the election, said it was "a great disappointment to the women who have worked so faithfully to preserve Massachusetts from the dangerous position she has assumed. We have the comfort of knowing that we did our utmost to keep the old Bay State within the Constitution and the law."

"For some of us," other States protected by law are open. Personally I do not wish to be a citizen in an outlaw State, which is defined as one which does not provide laws for the protection of its people.

The suggestion is made that if a drinking man would break an egg in his liquor and watch the effect of the alcohol on the egg, he would never put it into his stomach. It won't work. Most of the fellows who drink liquor these days would lift out the egg when it was done, throw it in the waste basket and gulp down the liquor.

MIZPAH

Author Unknown

The Lord watch between me and thee, when we are absent one from another.—Gen. XXXI, 49.

Go thou way, and I go mine;
Apart, yet not afar;
Only a thin veil hangs between
The pathways where we are,
And "God keep watch 'tween thee and me."

This is my prayer,
He looks thy way, He looketh mine,
And keeps us near.

I know not where they road may lie,
Or which way mine will be;
If mine will lead through parching sands,
And thine beside the sea;
Yet "God keep watch 'tween thee and me."

Should wealth and fame, perchance,
be thine,
And my lot lowly be;
Or you be sad and sorrowful,
And glory be for me;
Yet "God keep watch 'tween thee and me."

Both be His care.
One arm 'round thee and one 'round me,
Will keep us near.

I sigh, sometimes, to see thy face,
But since this may not be,
I'll leave thee to the care of Him
Who cares for thee and me.
"I'll keep thee both beneath My wings"

This comforts dear,
One wing o'er thee, and one o'er me—
So we are near.

And though our paths be separate,
And thy way is not mine,
Yet, coming to the mercy seat,
My soul will meet with thine,
And "God keep watch 'tween thee and me."

I'll whisper there,
He blessed thee, He blessed me,
And we are near.

TWO-MINUTE SERMONS
By REV. GEORGE HENRY

First Principles

Approach the average man on the subject of his personal salvation, try to persuade him to become a Christian and thus to become a member of the church, and nine times out of ten, he will tell you that there are some things he "does not understand about the Christian religion." It would be strange indeed if it were not so. To become a Mason or an Odd Fellow, you take one degree at a time. When you have taken the final degree and are declared a full-fledged member you still have much to learn. A full knowledge of the Christian religion is obtained in the same manner. One step at a time, "line upon line precept upon precept" is the rule. However you may know more about Christianity than about Masonry before you take the first step and a knowledge of first principles is all that a man needs to become a Christian. We "grow in grace and knowledge," develop into "the fullness of the stature of Christ." Don't attempt to solve the hard problems until you have mastered the simple arithmetic of the Christian religion.

The cynic is one who knows the price of everything and the value of nothing.—Oscar Wilde.

There are a lot of men in the community who spend more money for tobacco than they do for taxes yet no one ever heard a chirp out of them because of the high cost of the habit.

Slaves Gate in New Orleans
... an Interesting Relic

Iron Gate Forged by Slaves

It was to keep slaves from running away that the wrought iron gate was made so high at the entrance to the old gas works in New Orleans; and no doubt it was by slaves that these bars and scrolls were shaped and welded into so fine a composition of beauty and strength. For in New Orleans, whose craftsmanship in iron was equalled only by one or two other American cities, it is known that many of the most skillful metal workers were slaves.

This gate is about twenty feet high and wide enough to let two vehicles pass. Yet its members are all so nicely proportioned that its effect is one of beauty rather than of overpowering size. Just when it was erected might be difficult to learn. The furnaces within the gas works had been kept going continuously for ninety-three years, when they were lately extinguished, because new supplies of natural gas make them no longer necessary except as a reserve.

The gate may have been as old as the fires. It opens and closes as well as ever and its lamp and scrolls look as if their airy grace might remain for another hundred years.

The gate is of old-fashioned wrought iron throughout, believed to have been floated down the river from puddling furnaces in eastern Tennessee.

Old New Orleans Gas Works.

Excavation in Germany

Digging in Germany might prove a profitable pastime. Within one week a householder of Mariburg dug up a keg of 697 silver coins of 1625 and 1626, which were probably buried during the Thirty Years' war; a tourist discovered the skeleton of a bear in a cave near Karlsruhe, where none have been seen for 800 years; graves of ancient Celts have been found with bones 5,000 years old; at Konigsburg the oldest find was a stone ax dropped there before the glaciers came down over Europe 8,000 years ago; under the altar of Speyer cathedral the stone sarcophagus of an early Christian saint was brought to light; near Frankfort-on-Main a Roman military camp has been excavated and found to be steam-heated throughout its 16 rooms.

Named Cape Horn

Horn is a very famous place in Holland, for the old port sent out some of the most adventurous rovers that the world has ever seen. William Schouten was one of these restless folk who took the Dutch flag all over the globe. He was the first mariner to round the tip of South America, instead of getting into the Pacific by way of the straits of Magellan.

He made this adventurous journey in 1616 and he christened the southernmost projection of land Cape Horn, in honor of his birthplace. It has since been contracted to Cape Horn, but it was not named from its fancied resemblance to a horn, but from the Dutch town from which its discoverer sailed.—Detroit News.

Helpful Hint

"Here! now!" yelled Constable Slackpater of Petunia. "What in torment d'ye mean fiddling and phillandering all over the streets with that automobile the way you've been a-doing today?"

"This is my first car," answered the offender, "and I haven't more than half learned how to drive it yet. I want to turn around, but there doesn't seem to be room enough in any of the streets here."

"Well, you just drive over to Torpidville, six miles away, circumnavigate the public square there, come back here and you'll be turned around."—Kansas City Star.

The young people greatly enjoyed themselves in playing games at the barn and house. Refreshments of cocoa, doughnuts, cookies and apples were served.

The Parent Teachers' Association met at the home of Mrs. Ruth Holton in West Northfield Wednesday evening for the purpose of organizing the society.

More than spooks were out Friday evening at the South School to attend the Halloween party. Real live cats, pigs, rabbits and pigeons and a vegetable collection had assembled about the school room, also many a sample of cooking, canning and artistic drawings and cut out toys. All promised well for the future of these enterprising children. The interesting program given by the pupils, under the direction of their efficient teacher, Mrs. Ruth Holton was well worth the price of admission. A frolic of the witches, tableaux, "Mother Halloween" and Johnny Snickerbockers, received hearty applause from an appreciative audience. Mrs. C. I. Holton gave a comic reading and Miss Laura Martineau and Victor Vaughan of Northfield High School gave a surprise dialogue, that contributed to the fun of the evening. Candy and popcorn were sold for the benefit of the school.

In the midst of a Halloween back ground of witches, black cats and orange and black decorations a very nice program was given by the pupils of the Pond School under the direction of their teacher, Miss Lenore Darling. A good number were present to enjoy the fun.

Better Breakfasts

Do you plan your breakfast with as much interest as you plan your dinner? Or do you just reach mechanically for the coffee pot and toaster? It is true that breakfasts must often be hastily prepared, since most of us like to sleep as long as possible, but if a few minutes on the day before are devoted to planning the menu, and a few more minutes at dinner-time given to baking the hot breads for breakfast, it is a simple matter to convert your menu, heat your muffins or what-not, and quickly toss together the other good things that make up a breakfast.

Start the Day Right

And what a difference it makes in one's day! A tart, juicy fruit, a creamy cereal, a foamy omelet and crisp bacon, piping hot muffins and a sweet—these things start the whole family on tip-toe ready for the rush of the day's events.

How do these suggestions appeal to you for a September morn?

Chilled Cherries
Cooked Whole Wheat Cereal and Cream
Shirred Eggs Grilled Bacon
Pineapple Muffins Honey Coffee

Pineapple Muffins: Sift together two cups of flour, three tablespoons of sugar, four teaspoons of baking powder, one-half teaspoon of salt. Add two well-beaten eggs and one cup of milk. Add three tablespoons of melted butter and three-fourths cup of crushed pineapple which has been well-drained (you might reserve the syrup for a chilled fruit soup or a fruit cocktail). Bake in greased muffin tins in a hot oven—400 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes.

Messina, Italy, to Have World's Largest Clock

Messina, Italy.—The world's largest and most complicated clock will soon be erected in the belfry of the cathedral here. It will surpass all other clocks, including even the famous one of Strassburg for the originality of the movement and the variety of its signals.

Among the features of this great clock, which is to be built by an Alsatian firm, are a cock which crows at dawn, midday and sunset, an ornamental lion that wags its tail at midday, opens its mouth and emits a series of roars.

Two traditional figures of Messina folklore, Dina and Clarenza, appear every quarter of an hour and strike the clock's bell. At the hours, Death reaps in the time with a sickle, and then disappears behind a door.

The clock will tell the days of the week with a mythological figure appearing for each one. Thus Apollo guards the clock on Sundays, the moon on Mondays, Mars on Tuesdays, Mercury on Wednesdays, Jupiter on Thursdays, Venus on Fridays and Saturn on Saturdays.

There will be a number of biblical scenes which move on certain days of the year and notably at Easter and Christmas.

The clock will tell, besides the hours, the days of the week and the month, the phases of the moon, the seasons and the year.

The great clock, which it is expected will be in position by the end of the year, is due to the initiative of the archbishop of Messina, Monsignor Angelo Palmio.

Chinese Money Lenders Held on Girls' Charges

Peking, China.—Two thousand "sing song" girls in Peking are happy because the police have rounded up a score of money lenders charged with extortion.

The Chinese press says that many of these money lenders, starting with a few dollars, have amassed fortunes of $100,000 or more by lending money to the girls at unlawful rates. The practice has continued for years.

Recently, says the newspapers, the money lenders have become constantly more unreasonable, charging in some cases $1.50 daily interest on a $30 loan. Their greed proved their undoing.

One of the girls had a high official as a friend. He ordered an investigation, which has continued for some weeks. The city detectives gathered evidence against the entire group, and when they had enough, made wholesale arrests.

The police found that about 2,000 girls had signed notes which made them virtually slaves to the money lenders, and had to pay out most of their earnings in interest on small loans. In many cases a lifetime's work would not suffice to pay off the loan.

When city officials finally moved, they acted drastically. All of the loan contracts were destroyed and money lenders were either jailed or heavily fined.

The girls have been warned not to contract any further loans of the kind. They now start with a clean slate and know that the police will protect them in the future.

Cult Stages Fist Fights for Rheumatism Remedy

Belfast.—A Roman Catholic clergyman has introduced a new health cult in Irish villages which he claims is giving the K. O. to rheumatism.

Some years ago the reverend gentleman was stricken with rheumatism, and in the midst of his troubles was forced to use his fists on one occasion. After the encounter he felt better. He proclaimed the secret of his cure, and now every evening spectacles fatter than any pantomimes are staged in the one-time silent villages.

In the open, against a rustic background, stirring pugilistic bouts take place, and the reason for the conflicts is not the Irish love of fight, but a queer new health cult.

Magnesium Long Known

Magnesium metal has been known to science 100 years. Though known for 122 years it appeared in its purest form a century ago and has been available commercially for more than 65 years, says Dr. John A. Gann, metallurgist, in a report to the American Chemical society on the development of the magnesium industry.

Since the date of its discovery it has been found that the metal is about seventy times as plentiful as nickel and 200 times as abundant as copper. Magnesium salts are also found in mineral waters and in the ocean. The important raw material for magnesium production in the United States at the present time is Michigan salt brines.

Interesting Old Castle

Lumley castle, near Chester-le-Street, England, it is thought, can establish its claim to be the oldest inhabited castle in the two counties of Northumberland and Durham, says an article in the Montreal Family Herald. It was originally built as a manor house about 833, and continued as such for about four centuries. In the fourteenth century Sir Ralph Lumley had the castle remodeled by building the four corner towers or keeps and connecting the buildings on all sides but the west. The castle has been in continuous occupation of the Lumley family ever since its original erection in the days of the Saxon kings.

Tempt Wilted Appetites With a Colorful Salad

By JOSEPHINE B. GIBSON
Director, Home Economics Dept., H. J. Heinz Company

COLORFUL salads appeal to heat-wearyed appetites as does almost no other food, for they are cool and crisp even when the thermometer reaches unusual heights and it becomes a real problem to place appetizing meals.

Since this is true, it is a very wise plan to allow salads to play an important part in warm weather menus. Combinations of seasonable vegetables and greens, with well-flavored dressings, should be generously woven into every day's meals. The more substantial salads may be used as the main course for luncheon or dinner, while dainty combinations of fresh fruit are excellent to serve in place of dessert for dinner.

Why not try one of these delicious salads for dinner to-day?

Country Salad: 3 cups diced tongue or other cold meat, 3 hard cooked eggs, 1 cup shredded cabbage, 1 small minced onion and ½ cup Fresh Cucumber Pickles, cut small. Moisten with 6 tablespoons Mayonnaise Salad Dressing that has been thinned with about 2 tablespoons of juice from the jar of Pickles. Mix well and season with salt, pepper and ½ teaspoon Prepared Mustard. Chill and serve in deep, crisp lettuce cups, garnished with slices of Fresh Cucumber Pickle.

Molded Olive and Nut Salad: Dissolve a package of lemon flavored gelatin in 2 cups boiling water, and when it begins to thicken, fold in ¼ cup chopped nut meats and ¼ cup Stuffed Spanish Olives, sliced. Mold in individual molds and serve in nests of crisp lettuce garnished with Salad Cream Dressing.

Luncheon Salad: Heat 1 medium sized can Cream of Tomato Soup to the boiling point. Add 1½ tablespoons plain gelatin that has been soaked for five minutes in ¼ cup cold water. Add 2 small cakes of soft, white cheese, and ¾ cup Mayonnaise Salad Dressing. Mix thoroughly and when the salad begins to thicken, add ½ cup diced celery, 1 green pepper chopped, and ¼ cup Stuffed Spanish Olives, sliced. Mold in individual molds, chill, and serve in lettuce beds, garnished with sliced Olives. This recipe serves from 10 to 12 people.

Golden Gate Salad: Mix 1 cup cantaloupe cubes, 1 cup pineapple cubes, 1 cup fresh peach cubes and 1 cup diced marshmallows. Chill and moisten with Mayonnaise Salad Dressing. Heap the fruit generously in halves of chilled cantaloupe or small melons, from which part of the centers have been removed. Last of all, top with whipped cream into which Currant Jelly has been beaten. For each cup of whipped cream, use 2 tablespoons Currant Jelly. Serve in nests of crisp lettuce.

Summer Fruit Salad: Ch-11 1 cup each of blackberries, cantaloupe balls or cubes, fresh pineapple, grapefruit and red raspberries. Arrange in small individual moulds on nests of lettuce, keeping each fruit separate, and leaving a space in the center for the salad dressing. As a dressing use Mayonnaise Salad Dressing, folding in ½ cup sweetened whipped cream for each cup of Mayonnaise.

Siamese Fighting Fish Put Up Hot Contests

Meet Mr. Wat Chant Alur Bopiter, two inches of forked and flailing lightning, famed fighting minnow of Siam. This ferocious though diminutive fish lay immersed in a bowl in the New York aquarium, the object of admiration of a huge crowd, according to a report in Time, the News-magazine.

In Siam, fish fighting occupies much the same place that cock fighting once did in the United States. In each of Bangkok's ten halls there are several tables about which are grouped seats for spectators. When the audience is ready, two bowls, each containing a contestant, are placed on the table. A fight is guaranteed if they charge at one another and pump their noses on the intervening glass. The betting commissioner books bets, the limit being $44. The two fish are then dumped into one big bowl together. They charge furiously, first ripping off each other's ruby-red ventral fins. Next to go is the red top fin, while frequently they bite off chunks of side meat, drawing blood. With good fish a fight will last for six hours. Unpedigreed ones are exhausted in 15 minutes. After a fish has lost a battle he is bred no more but spends his declining days training small fry. Trainer fish constantly have their bodies mutilated as do United States fistfight trainers. Their advantage over the United States equivalents: they can regenerate broken parts.

Six Foreign Countries Receive Red Cross Aid

Relief was given by the American Red Cross during the year in six foreign nations in disasters ranging from a tidal wave in Newfoundland, an earthquake in Peralta, floods in France to help for refugees from Russia and prevention of a smallpox epidemic in Costa Rica.

The $5,000 Red Cross contribution to Newfoundland, following the tidal wave, which took twenty-six lives and destroyed many homes and fishing boats, was the first from an outside country to reach the distressed people.

The sum of $5,000 was given to the fund for the relief of the Mennonite refugees of German descent, who had determined to leave Russia for new lands. About 13,000 passed through Germany, where the German Red Cross, aided by Red Cross societies of other nations, helped them. The majority are being transported to new countries in the western world and the American Red Cross has transmitted contributions from individuals in this country.

When Costa Rica was menaced by a smallpox epidemic, the American Red Cross sent fifty thousand tubes of vaccine, in two airplane loads, undoubtedly saving the country from a serious outbreak of the dread disease.

A violent earthquake on the ocean floor last November broke 10 of the 21 trans-Atlantic cables.

A Fudge Sauce Romance

By JANE OSBORN

(Copyright.)

DUNCAN HODGES was not particularly sensitive. Soft music made him feel neither sad nor sentimental. The fragrance of sweet flowers on a spring day did not fill him with poetic longings. He felt no special thrill at the sight of the rosy glow of sunrise. His friend, Charles Cornwall, told him that whenever he chanced to get a whiff of that particular brand of expensive perfume used by the girl to whom he had once been engaged, he felt a queer, depressing sort of thrill. Duncan Hodges had listened politely—maybe other men were like that, but Duncan couldn't understand it.

He had seen Dora Claire that afternoon. They were going to a masquerade dance together in a week and they had been shopping to get their things.

"You're going to look too wonderful for words, Duncan," cooed the little girl at his side.

"Going to look pretty nifty yourself in that Spanish get-up," countered Duncan.

"Do you really think so—Duncan?" she asked. "I wonder whether you mean it. Men say such nice things—but when you know they say the same things to all the girls they know—it doesn't count for much." Dora sighed. It was a sigh that went more or less directly to Duncan's heart.

They walked on a step or two and Duncan hurriedly reminded himself that Dora was supposedly something of a flirt, and that it had even been hinted that the reason she had accepted his own addresses for the past months was because of his good job, and not inconsiderable private fortune. Still, she was a nice girl. Perhaps the tender feelings he had about his heart were as a matter of fact love—perhaps he really did care a great deal for Dora—

"I swear I never say things to girls just to say them," Duncan was beginning. "When I say you are the prettiest girl in our crowd I mean it." This was a good beginning. They were passing a popular candy store—that was the end of romance at least so far as Dora and Duncan were concerned. For up from the basement, out from the shop there came the enticing fragrance of fudge sauce. Duncan took two or three good whiffs—and—presto chango!—there came before him—between him and Dora it seemed—the image of a frank-faced girl with reddish hair—a few freckles—eyes that were merry though not exactly beautiful. It was Jane Cobham.

"You didn't finish what you were saying," said Dora.

Duncan said that he was going to ask Dora to drop into the confectionery shop and have some tea or something. And all the time that they sat there vis-a-vis Duncan got whiffs of fudge sauce and with every whiff thoughts of Jane Cobham became more and more vivid.

Back in his rooms that night Duncan sat thinking of Jane—Jane, the girl he had liked so well four or five years ago when he was a student at a co-educational college. He hadn't had much money to spend then, but quite often he took Jane to the sweet shop and treated her to chocolate fudge sundae. He had never analyzed the matter but now he knew that somewhere in his mind the smell of hot fudge sauce was intricately mixed up with thoughts of Jane Cobham—and both seemed very pleasant. He remembered that he had once intended to ask Jane if she would not marry him.

Duncan went through with the masquerade. Dora scolded him for his indifference. Then she began flirting with some of the other men—thought she was punishing him, perhaps. And all the time he was figuring out how he could get away from his job long enough to run out to the college town where Jane Cobham lived—the daughter of a very much under-paid professor.

Duncan arrived one afternoon and went straight to the old Cobham house, looking for all the world as if he had four years before. He rang the front doorbell and Jane answered. She seemed a little embarrassed, but she didn't look a day older than when he saw her last. In fact, to Duncan there seemed to be a softness and sweetness about her that had never been observable before. Duncan thought that was perhaps because she was engaged. So as soon as they had taken chairs in the rather shabby living room he asked her outright and in plain words whether she was engaged.

"Of course not, silly," said Jane. "Well, let's go down to the sweet shop and get a sundae with fudge sauce."

Jane giggled a little. "I thought you would have outgrown things like that. We have a tea room here now. I should think tea and toasted English muffins would seem smarter to you now."

"Next time, perhaps," said Duncan. "But all I want just now is fudge sauce."

A week later, back at work, Duncan came upon his old friend, Charles Cornwall. "Congratulations me," he demanded. "I'm engaged—guess you know her—Jane Cobham. Maybe you're right after all about the power of the senses—but it wasn't roses or expensive perfume with me—it was just fudge sauce."

Faith of Brothah Joe

Surely at Low Point
L. E. Newton of Garden City, Mo., put down his magazine and devoted himself to thoughts of a negro handy man who used to work for him—Old Joe Black.

Old Joe, writes Mr. Newton, was forever getting religion and backsliding. One summer he suffered no fewer than seven of these successful wrestles with Satan, and a particularly powerful preacher was called to the rescue.

"Have faith, Brothah Joe, have faith," exhorted the good man. "Hitch yourself to faith and git goin'." Don't you know faith no bigger than a mus-tahd seed'll move a mountain?"

"Sho' does, sho' does," groaned Old Joe Black. "But jist this minute I ain't got faith enough to move that mushahd seed."—Collier's Weekly.

Motor Injuries Treated
By Red Cross First Aid

In line with its work for the preservation of life and prevention of accidental death, the American Red Cross has adopted a new program of emergency first aid stations on the highways of the nation, where victims of automobile injuries will be helped.

In the last year 31,000 persons were killed as the result of automobile accidents and more than 1,000,000 were injured. As its contribution to the nation wide safety campaigns of other organizations, the Red Cross will aid through the emergency stations. A number already are in operation by Chapters on such important traffic arteries as the Westchester County, N. Y. park system, the Valley Forge and Gettysburg highways in Pennsylvania and the White Horse Pike in New Jersey, connecting with Atlantic City.

Noted English Porcelain

Spode is the name of an Englis.
porcelain made at the pottery of Josiah Spode in Staffordshire, England.
Spode was born in 1754 and died in 1827. He manufactured dessert services, Spode cups, and Spode jugs or pitchers, large and long-lipped with a capacity of a gallon. When sixteen years of age, he is credited with having begun to make field-pot porcelain at Stoke-upon-Trent, and introduced into his composition crushed bone which was a soft base giving a very transparent body. His pieces were highly decorated with floral and ornithological designs, and were highly valued. Succeeded by his son, the firm he established became one of the leading houses in the industry. Literary

"Six" Goes To School

"But now I am six, I'm as clever as clever,
So I think I'll be six now for ever and ever."

SO says the charming Christopher Robin of A. A. Milne's verse, on attaining the mature age of six years. And who wouldn't feel clever, after five long years of home supervision, if one suddenly stepped off to the brand new world of pupils and teachers—with a lunch-box all one's own, and maybe a book? But the mother who watches this clever personage walk with dignity down the street, doesn't feel half so confident. What of the mid-morning milk and graham crackers? What of the hot dinner at noon—the main meal of the day which she has been serving for these five years, so that supper may be light and therefore conducive to happy dreams?

Foods for Thought

The first weeks of school are a period of adjustment, and the wise mother usually begins this adjustment a few weeks before school opens. It is well for the child entering school to have an especially nourishing breakfast that will be adequate to furnish energy until noon—a fruit, a warm cereal with plenty of rich milk, light but sustaining egg or bacon dishes, with buttered toast and a warm drink, such as a chocolate malted drink or cocoa. The lunch-box, may be made to take the place of the warm meal at home if it contains some of the strained vegetables—they are prepared in cans, by the way. If the busy mother hasn't time to prepare them—in a warm thermos container, some simple but nourishing sandwiches, such as whole wheat bread with peanut butter, or graham bread with lettuce and cream cheese, tempting fruit, and enough cookies so that there will be some left for the afternoon recess.

Chicken Pie Supper Served

The Chicken Pie supper served by the Woman's Alliance of the Unitarian church Wednesday evening was largely attended and a fine supper was served, many coming from out of town. The hall was prettily trimmed with Hallowe'en colors. The sale of aprons, fancy articles, candy and miscellaneous articles proved successful. Thirteen tables of bridge were in play in the upper hall.

The World in Your Market Basket

WHEN you travel in strange countries and seek the little shops along the by-ways for the odd and different things which are characteristic of the land in which you are wandering—you are having a most fascinating time, aren't you? Do you ever think, when you put your market basket over your arm and saunter forth to the grocery that, if you are feeling in a cosmopolitan frame of mind, you may collect the good and different things from many lands, all perhaps at one store? Try it some time—it is a marvelous way to break the monotony of every day marketing.

From Arctics to Tropics

There is pineapple in golden slices, or other luscious forms, which is fairly vibrant with the sunny days of Hawaii, there is salmon—pink and firm, its flavor due to the ice-fed streams of Alaska where it swam, sardines from the little fishing villages of Norway, France and Portugal, tart grapefruit which has ripened in tropical climes; there are peppery dishes with the tang of Mexico—such as chili con carne and tasty tamales, and caviar from the shores of far-off Russia. And coming home, with the world tucked away in your market basket, why not carry on your imaginary cruise by serving a dish that you learned from the natives, say of the Orient?

Lobster Oriental is worth going a long way to learn about. Heat two tablespoons of oil in a skillet and add one-half teaspoon of salt, a few grains of cayenne and two tablespoons of lemon juice. Slice three-fourths cup of canned bamboo shoots in very thin slices and add. Remove the tendons from a 6-ounce can of lobster, cut in large pieces and add. Saute for about five minutes and then serve.*

Off to the movies :-:

Leisure time is the lot of this young wife. Oh yes, dinner will be served on time—piping hot—brown roasted and done to a turn.

You see our young wife has placed all the vegetables and a roast in the electric oven. She has set the automatic time controls to turn on the heat at 3:30 and to shut off at 5:45. So at the usual time dinner will be served perfectly cooked. And with it all our young wife has enjoyed herself all the afternoon.

Now this is being done everywhere, right now, today.

You, too, may have this comfort, convenience and leisure time with an automatic electric range.

CHEVROLET ANNUAL DEALER MEETINGS

A significant sign of the aggressive policies to be adopted by the automobile toward making 1931 rank with past years in volume is seen here in the announcement that Chevrolet's annual dealer meetings are to get under way next week, two months in advance of the customary date.

Four groups of sales officials from the home office, each group accompanied by a full carload of theatrical equipment, stage hands, electricians, etc., are scheduled to hold fifty meetings at as many central points during the next five weeks, which will be attended by upwards of 20,000 Chevrolet dealers and associated bankers located in every section of the country.

In previous years these meetings,
which are held to acquaint the dealer organization with company plans for the new year, got under way in January, during New York Automobile Show week. Inasmuch as formerly a portion of each meeting centered
upon the presentation of Chevrolet's annual new model, considerable speculation has been aroused here over a probable tie-up between the meetings and an early announcement of a new Chevrolet for 1931.

H. J. Klingler, vice-president and general sales manager of Chevrolet, remained noncommittal on the subject of a new car other than to state that a part of the star chamber sessions with his dealers would be on this subject. He explained the holding of the meetings earlier this year by stating that normally November and December are dull months in the industry, and dealers are better able to leave their places of business during these months than in January or February. He pointed out further that by holding the meetings now, the dealers would have complete information on 1931 plans before the turn of the year, and would be able to put them into effect two months earlier than formerly, thus better preparing themselves for the early Spring rush of business.

The first meeting is scheduled at Cleveland on November 3 and the last ones at Wichita and Davenport on December 5. Mr. Klingler, under whose general direction the meets are being held, plans to attend meetings at various points, while the next four ranking sales officials will have charge of the four groups.

D. E. Ralston, assistant general sales manager, directs the Western meetings, which start at Chicago on Nov.
4 and wind up at Wichita, intermediate extreme points being at Minneapolis, Seattle, Los Angeles and El Paso.

Group two, in charge of M. D. Douglas, general parts and service manager, opens at St. Louis on Nov. 5, and holds thirteen meetings with extreme points at New Orleans, San Antonio, Denver and Kansas City, winding up at Davenport.

R. K. White, advertising manager, heads the third group which starts at Fort Wayne on Nov. 4 and holds twelve meetings in that territory with extreme points at Louisville, Birmingham, Jacksonville and Cincinnati, ending at Charlotte, N. C., on Dec. 3.

Crew four, with W. E. Holler, assistant general sales manager, in charge, swings through the East, opening at Cleveland, continuing through Pittsburg to Washington, North thru
New York City to Boston and Portland, and West to Buffalo, where the trip ends on Nov. 25.

Meetings in each town last for two days. The first day's sessions are held in a leading theater or hall in each town, and every place of car merchandising is presented on the stage in the form of talks and playlets, with the home office officials in the role of speakers and actors. By this means such subjects as accounting, service, advertising, new and used car selling,
etc., are dramatized for more effective presentation.

During the second day star chamber sessions are held with the field sales organization, and open house is observed to afford dealers an opportunity to discuss with the central office executives problems and conditions peculiar to their locality.

Chicago Has a New Kind of Beacon

A close-up of the reflector light on the new La Salle-Wacker beacon in Chicago. The eight parabolic mirrors, each five feet in height, magnify and reflect the rays of the sun during the day, and at night red neon lights are reflected in the mirrors, sending out beams to eight points of the compass.

Game is scarce because of the white man's greed. The Indian is more civilized. He kills only what he needs for food, but the white man kills for the sake of killing. It was the savage in the white man that depeted the plains of buffalo, drove the deer to the mountains and has almost rendered the prairie chicken extinct. For very wantonness boys in the town shoot the birds and their fathers in the fields shoot any wild thing that turns up.

All the greatest men live in their purpose and effort more than it is possible for them to live in reality.—
Ruskin.
